Who promised you tomorrow?
Who promised your plans would work?
Who told you that a meteor won't just crash into Earth?
Who told you she's going to stay?
Who told you life would always be this way?

Who told you, you have time?
Don't you get it? They lied.

Who told you that you should hide your truth?
Who told you that one day soon you could be you?
Who stopped you from proving your love?
Who made hiding things look cool and fun?

Who told you you'd have time?
Don't you see it? They lied.

Who told you not to chase the one you love?
Who told you to treat them like dust?
Who told you boys kissing boys and girls kissing girls aren't done?
Who told you that rape was anything other than lust?

The world doesn't have time.
Anyone who told you different lied.

Who told you that you should always have the upper hand?
Who told you that bowing down to her would make you less of a man?
Who told you that the world doesn't need your fire?
Who told you to check your rage and ire?

Don't you see they lied?
There really is no time.

Who told you women don't deserve equal pay?
Who told you that having to fight for a seat at the table is okay?
Who told you that you can judge the length of her dress?
Who told you that she'd always clean up your mess?

Who told you the world has time?
Don't you see how much of it we left behind?

Who told you that you're superior based on your skin color?
Who told you that you could tear down each other?
Who told you that this was the way of life?
Who told you you could stab people's backs with knives?

Don't you see how the world's gone wrong?
Don't you see that there's no glorious final song?
Don't you see that these words are lies?
Don't you see we're running out of time?

Who told you that religion should be a dividing factor?
Who told you bigotry in the 21st century would matter?
Who told you that the Earth would be just fine?
Who told you we didn't need trees or a spine?

Who told you all these lies?
Wake up.
We don't have time.
